A Message from Fr Dan: The Priest in the Parish: This summer will mark my 17th anniversary as the priest in Rosbercon Parish. Being in the parish for seventeen years is a gift. Now, when I celebrate a funeral Mass, I know the person whose funeral I am celebrating. I know the grieving family, and who is related to the deceased. This pastoral knowledge is a true gift for me, the fruit of nothing but time.

People also speak more freely. It's the result of building up relationships over the years. Working with parishioners to be a gift from God, all the more so when I have had the chance to get to know the people.

So, I am wondering now what the future holds for the parishes of Ireland. Every diocese has its own way of coping with the reducing number of priests. Some places cluster parishes, others create pastoral areas or families of parishes. The end result is the same: fewer priests serving people whom they do not know personally. The opinion offered by the Independent TD Michael Healy-Rea contains a grain of truth: once a parish loses its resident priest, as his local parish of Kilgarvan did, the Church loses its "hold" on the parish. A vital link is broken.

And the priest suffers too. He needs to be part of a community: being part of several communities is not the same thing. We ask if lay people could do much of the work that priests do, when priests are no longer available? Could lay people be formed and trained to run parishes? The number of priests is declining. We have prayed for vocations and have not received a positive answer: so maybe God has other plans for his parishes?

Some dioceses provide an opportunity for priests from other countries to work here. This can lead to complications. Foreign dioceses need their own priests. Also, there are cultural differences between countries that are sometimes hard to resolve. Some priests succeed, for others the result is frustration. Irish Catholic priests provide a unique service to those parishes in which they serve; they get to know their people and the people get to know them. In the future, when those close relationships are no longer available, will other relationships take their place? Surely God has more surprises for us!

The Synodal Journey in Ossory: Rosbercon parishioners are invited to a meeting in Rosbercon Parish Hall on Monday 28th March at 7.30pm. The entire Catholic Church across the world is in the midst of a Synod, which simply means 'Walking Together'. The people of God are prayerfully listening together to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the Church today. Every member of the Church is invited to take part, and to share their thoughts, to help us plan for the future. Please join us on Monday 28th March in the Parish Hall at 7.30pm. Pope Francis and all of us want to hear what you have to say. See list of Venues for all meetings in the diocese on the Notice Boards of the Churches of the Parish.

Reflection

My life is but a weaving
Between the Lord and me;
I cannot choose the colours,
He worketh steadily.

Oft-times he weaveth sorrow,
And I, in foolish pride
Forget he sees the upper,
And I the under side.

Not till the loom is silent
And the shuttles cease to fly,
Shall God unroll the canvas
And explain the reason shy.

The dark threads are as needful,
In the weaver's skilful hand,
As the threads of gold and silver
In the pattern he has planned.

He knows, he loves, he cares –
Nothing this truth can dim;
He gives the very best to those
Who leave the choice to him.

Wisdom: "What impresses us about Christ is that there is no difference between what he says and what he does."

Humour: As a woman rushed with a kettle of water to pour over her burning curtains, her husband shouted at her 'Don't be a fool Mary, sure that water's no good – it's boiling.'
